

Abstract of the Disclosure:

For effective utilization of data packets of differing capacity transmitted in a communications network, an agreement is made between a master station (ZE) and subscribers (T) to fill containers for user data packets (LD) with a plurality of control data packets (KD) in the transmission frame.

Urgent control information, e.g., in a handover in a wireless transmission system can thus be transmitted efficiently (Figure 4).